Town Council Meeting Held Mouday Evening

May, Hare, Curfew to Get Children Home Early

Town council met Monday evening, Mayor Sangster and all Councillors were present.

Messrs. R. C. Hargrave and H. Sheasby who were representatives of the Masonic Lodge, were at the meeting to make arrangements for renting the town building.

They were given a report of conditions which could be arranged for costs and what could be fixed for use of other lodges on motion of councillor Hope council agreed to make satisfactory arrangement for rent, as the committee suggested.

At last meeting several citizens were of the opinion that the cost of removing garbage from back-new places was unfair and petitioned that same be eliminated. The committee in charge of this matter decided the present arrangement would be continued till end of year at least.

Mr. Geo. McKay asked council for repairs for the town building in which he resides as engineer of town pump station. Council decided building would be repaired.

Mr. F. Britt, the town secretary, was appointed to make arrangements for tax sale.

Report from Provincial Labor also announced that there was no danger of contamination in Redcliff water.

Finance Committee approved payment of accounts as rendered. Councillor Willis moved accounts be paid.

There was considerable discussion as to arrangements for settlement of payment to debenture holders. Later, councillor Shaw moved to appoint Mayor Sangster and Secretary F. Britt to go to Edmonton to make arrangements with Utilities Commission and government officials for some satisfactory agreement.

Councillor Willis suggested that arrangements be made to have a town whistle turned on every evening at 9 o'clock to warn small children to go home by this hour. All were agreed that this should be done.

RADIO JOTTINGS

by

Frank E. Fleming

Well Known Physical Instructor on CPAC

An extensive background in the field of physical instruction, together with a pleasing radio voice, are factors which have made Miss Sheila Jean Ritchie so popular with listeners to her thrice-weekly program over CPAC, in which she conducts radio classes in limbering-up and stretching exercises.

Miss Ritchie, a native Californian, is a graduate of McGill University, and is the leader of the new Dominion-Provincial Health Education program. Besides having held posts as physical instructor at many institutions, she was formerly Dominion swimming champion in the 50 and 100 yard classes, and has won many laurels in basketball as well.

Miss Ritchie's program "Keep Fit", is heard Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays over CPAC at 9:30 a.m.

Good News of 1939

Clark Gable and Lionel Barrymore, two of Hollywood's outstanding screen performers hold the spotlight on the Good News of 1939 program on Thursday, October 27, from 7:00 to 8:00 p.m., over CPAC. Gable and Barrymore will appear in a dramatic sketch written especially for the broadcast. Another highlight will be a musical preview of the film version of "The Great Waltz" presented by Meredith Wilson's orchestra and a group of soloists.

Frank Morgan will continue his campaign for Senator, and Fanny Brice as Baby Snooks will again torment her Daddy, played by Hanley Stafford.

The supper held in St. Ambrose Parish Hall on Monday was well attended. The room was gaily decorated in Halloween colors and the tables looked lovely with their snowy clothes and cut flowers. A delicious supper was served, the members of the Junior W.A.S., acting as servitors.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

by

H. G. L. Strange

The whole world has had a miraculous escape from a devastating war. Had war occurred, millions of lives would have been lost and billions of dollars worth of property would have been destroyed. The danger came because of the determination of Germany to acquire new lands.

Some people consider that the German and one can add to this the Italian and the Japanese motives are those of unwarranted aggression of a love for war.

A study of Hitler's books and speeches, however, and of matters underlying worldwide economy, convinces me, at least, that the real motive actuating the aggression of Germany, Italy and Japan is simply that of a desire to secure the essential foodstuffs and raw materials necessary for the welfare of their people, and which products today are denied them, in the quantities they need by the high tariff policies of the democratic countries of the world.

The way to satisfy Germany and the other "have-not" countries, and so to avoid war in the future, in my humble opinion is simple. It is to reduce existing high tariffs, and so permit the exchange of raw materials and foodstuffs of the farmers for more of the goods and commodities of the worlds industrial works.

Mr. Archie Todd of Winnifred spent the week and with his parents Mr. and Mrs. T. Todd. On Sunday they motored to Brooks and Duxbury bringing back with them Miss Alice Todd and Mrs. K. McCoy who will also visit with their parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Mackenzie and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Campbell were among the guests who attended the party given at the Assiniboia Hotel last Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. James Robinson to celebrate Mr. Robinson's empty-ninth birthday.

Laying for the EAST

The East Likes Western
Poultry to the Tune of Nearly $2,000,000 a year

Not only do Western hens lay for the East to the extent of over 50,000,000 eggs a year, but over 6,000,000 lbs. of them, and their consorts, go East in person to grace the dining tables of Eastern industrial workers.

The East needs the West to feed it. The West needs the East as a market for its produce; so the two work together — the East by spending over $40,000,000 a year with the Western farmer, and the West — by buying Canadian-built cars.

And that's a point worth remembering, for every car bought in the West helps not only the food-consuming automobile worker — it keeps men working and on payrolls in the rubber, paint, glass, steel, parts, chemicals and many other Eastern industries, to the ultimate advantage of the Westerner himself.

Pullets For Egg Production

Early Hatched Pullets Produce More Eggs During First Laying Year
Under normal conditions a pullet hatched reasonably early lays more eggs during her first laying year than during the same period of time in any other part of her life. Hence for egg production alone, the pullets are more profitable than the older females. In view of this fact it is difficult to justify the keeping of the hen through the second winter, as far as egg production is concerned.

If the average farmer cares to purchase day-old chicks each year, they are available from the commercial hatcheries at the proper season, no breeding stock is required, no incubators or risks in hatching, no adult diseases and no testing for pullorum. The cockerels and yearling hens may be used each year for table purposes before cold weather comes in the fall and the only chickens to be housed and fed during the winter would be a uniform bunch of laying pullets. At winter prices it would not require many eggs to pay for the day-old chicks for spring delivery. There is little gain in the value of sexed chicks at double price if cockerels can be used for table purposes. However, if produced eggs are being hatched at home or to sell to the hatchery, the adult hen is the better sexed eggs. At present, the Commercial Hatchery at Scott, Bask, states E. Van Nieu, the Assistant in Hives Black, chicks hatched from hen eggs have been more than twice as many as chicks hatched from pullet eggs. At the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa, figures from the experimental farms in Canada have been compiled comparing the hatching percentage of pullet and hen eggs. Differences were apparent in the percentage of eggs fertile, the percentage of fertile eggs hatched, the average figures covering a period of four years ending 1937, from all branch farms showed every point mentioned to be in favor of the hen eggs, although the difference were not great in any case.

The poultryman should decide whether breeding stock and hatchery eggs are to be produced or whether eggs are to be produced only for sale. In the former case, he cannot be overlooked and must be carried through the second and often the third year, but in the latter case the procedure is simple and the laborer as well as the overhead expenses are cut to a minimum.

Holidays In The Fall

Have Advantages For Those Who Must Consider Expenses

The Christian Science Monitor says that the holiday camps in Britain have found this year their bookings for the earlier weeks of October were greater in number than ever, and from this it is inferred that the fall is becoming more popular as a holiday season. The fact is that there are many advantages for those who do not consider the extermination of lying in the sun as the only type of vacation. The fall is a time when most travel lightly, so far as their purse is concerned, for change and rest. For prices fall with the leaves. If there is a nip in the air, the pocket is not so likely to feel the pinch, and the holidaymaker to find, as Mark Twain did, that the waiter gets the change and the landlady takes the rest.

Where Business Is Good

Eskimos Have Had Excellent Year In Eastern Arctic

Terence M. Shortt, representative of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police's northern voyage, says this year's business at the Hudson's Bay Company supply ship Nascopie, reports there is "no depression in the Eastern Arctic" and is an excellent year for "Arctic" while fox and Eskimos seemed happy. Shortt obtained the first collection of Eastern Arctic ornithological specimens to reach the museum. In addition he brought 30 specimens of birds collected on Somerset Island by L. A. Learmonth, Hudson's Bay Company manager at Port Rose. Among specimens obtained were a yellow-tailed hawk, a Layland Kingbird (a small hawk with long hind toes) and a duck hawk.

British statisticians found that of the big cities of the world, London has the lowest death rate. After London, the healthiest cities are Berlin, New York, Paris, Tokyo and Rome.

Huge Glacier System

Harvard Expedition Reports Plenty Of Ice Yet To Melt

The report of the Harvard University-National Geographic expedition to the glacier fields of the Mt. Kilimanjaro in Alaska should be as cooling as the tinkle of ice in a glass. There was a time when ice up to a mile high covered the mountains and New England, but the last Ice Age never really departed. There are, probably as large ice sheets as ever, only there are fewer of them. Just Antarctic has the duty of them all. There is ice in Greenland and it appears to be growing. There is a huge glacier system in Alaska and, while there are indications that it has been melting, perhaps to make the Alaskan-Yukon district warmer and the present of this, there is evidence that more ice to melt, according to the report of this American expedition. Mount St. Elias, 55 miles from the Pacific, may be connected in the minds of some with the name of the Duke of Abruzzi, who first ascended it. That was 40 years ago when Italian exploits were being watched with more friendly eyes by North Americans. According to Bradford Washburn, leader of the present expedition, the glacier field, which almost reaches the sea one hundred miles west of Mount St. Elias, covers an immense area and reaches heights of from five to seven thousand feet.

Opinion Of Chinese Educator

Dr. Kuo Thinks China Likely To Lose In Present War

A Chinese educator, A. C. Koo, told an audience of Detroit business men that China cannot win the undeclared war Japan forced upon us. "Japan has superior war material, tanks, armor and an organized army," said Dr. Koo. "They also have more food supplies and material. China still lacks all this." A Japanese victory in the present war, he predicted, is as far as military victory in the present crisis is concerned. "A Japanese victory in the East would not mean, though, that Japan has 'conquered' China or that 75,000,000 Chinese can dominate 450,000,000 Chinese indefinitely. The Chinese have put up a brave fight."

And if their ability to survive 5,000 years in this competitive world means anything it means that in the end they will outlast the Japanese from their soil and recover that dominant position in eastern Asia to which their numbers and their character seem to entitle them Detroit Free Press.

The Black Cobra

Has Its Counterpart In People Who Spread Slander

Snales, the man, run up and down the whole scale of good and bad. Of all the bad makes, however, the black cobra seems to head the list of human nastiness for harm. He has been called the "most diabolical member of the snake family." There is nothing diabolical about him, for, whatever he does, he does because "he's born that way." Therever this snake is found it is reported that the spray of his venomous saliva, which he can throw as far as eight feet, will produce instantaneous blindness when striking the eyes of man. Sometimes this blindness is permanent, sometimes it lasts but a day or two.

Here is a fine illustration of the slanderer who goes about blinding people by "spitting" the venom of slander and falsehood into the intellectual eyes of those he knows, if they are either permanently blinded to the truth or, at least, so severely incapacitated for seeing that they never see straight again. Our Dumb Animals.

Normal Life Span

Professor Hedges If Should Be 125 To 150 Years

To prolong life we must first study how to refrain from shortening it, says A. A. Hedges, president of the Academy of Science of the Ukraine, who has just published a book called "Prolongation of Life." The normal life of a human being at the present stage of development should be 125 to 150 years in the opinion of Prof. Hedges. He bases his theory both on his own researches and on the studies of Soviet and foreign scientists.

Fish From Goldfields

Trout Catch This Year Was Slightly Under Million Pounds

The commercial fishing season closed on Lake Abashale Sept. 15 and fishermen on the big lake pulled their nets and packed away their gear at the McIntosh Products fish camp on Cracking Stone point, 15 miles southwest of Goldfields. The trout catch, a little under a million pounds was sent to Chicago markets. Many of the fishermen returned to their homes or went to Goldfields in quest of employment.

Trout fishing got underway about the beginning of July. McIntosh Products, the only fishing company operating on the lake, employed 15 crews each carrying a three-man crew. The men fish on contract being paid on a poundage basis for the fish they catch and deliver to the company warehouse at Cracking Stone. Here the catch is put in refrigerators, some frozen, some shipped fresh. They go south to Waterville, Alberta, in refrigerated barges owned by the company and at that point are transferred to refrigerator cars and not south by rail via Edmonton.

Cake Had Long Trip

Baker Journeyed 1,000 Miles With Entry For Competition

Taking with him his entry for the wedding cake competition at the International Bakers' and Confectioners' Exhibition, D. McIntyre, a Buleway (Missouri) baker, near 1,000 miles to Cape Town, journeyed 5,000 miles by ship; and arrived at the Royal Agricultural Hall, Islington, with only two minutes to spare before judging began, says Overseas Daily Mail.

But his "bait" was worth while, for he returned to Buleway with the first prize.

Among the learned men who have been talking at Stratford-on-Avon is Professor Dover Wilson. He examined the poet's hand-writing and found it to be a lecture at the Shakespeare Conference. "Our strange and irrational English spelling, which had been imposed upon us by schoolmasters, was the said of comparatively modern growth. In Shakespeare's day every gentleman's spell as he liked, and still more every gentleman—witness the remarkable orthography of Queen Elizabeth herself."

Professor Wilson might have pointed out the instruction concerning the future generations by spelling as one likes. Ancient manuscripts, for example, vindicate a modern pronunciation of "Ralph" by revealing that under the Tudors the name was spelt "Rale", and the vexed question of "Raleigh" might be settled by reference to the Walter's own signature of "Raleway"—London Times.

Using Night Lighting

Poultrymen Find It Helps Overcome Winter Egg Slump

During the midnight of low moon supposed to be the popular pastime of artists and writers. To-day's wicker poultrymen are using night-lighting to overcome the fall and winter egg slump.

Electricity, kerosene or gasolene may be used to light the house. The general practice is either to lighten the day to twelve hours or to allow a lunch hour about 9 p.m. There are four systems of lighting in use—morning or evening lights, a combination of both, and the evening light system.

Through lighting the birds' eating time is lengthened, resulting in increased egg production and consequently better production. This is particularly true of broiler birds, which otherwise often are not given a chance to eat enough to maintain their bodies' muscles to produce eggs.

The Bride of Three Months

Wintering Bees

Strong Colonies Best Prepared To Stand The Test Of Winter

The foundation for next summer's honey crop will be laid this autumn. Colonies which are good condition and are headed by a good queen will yield the best surplus. These colonies will be the ones which survive the winter best and which, in spring, will be best prepared to withstand the test of winter. It pays to lay the foundation well.

At Spaulding where is located the Dominion Experimental Station for Northern Ontario, bees often have their last good autumn flight in September and their first spring flight near the end of April, state M. J. Rowland, Apiarist of the Station. That long winter confinement is a severe test of their endurance and longevity. However, in spite of the long period when no brood is raised it has been proved that colonies can survive these long winters and be in excellent condition in the spring.

Factors essential for good wintering are:

Strong colonies of young healthy bees; Ample stores in the hive during the autumn; and a good queen.

Healthy living conditions with adequate protection from cold. Young bees are procured by having a good queen with ample stores in the hive during the autumn. In cold weather bees are kept healthy to a great extent by storing the honey in the hive and free from mildew, this is secured through protection from cold.

Stores should be given in ample time to allow for any necessary emergency and ripening. If syrup is fed, however, the last of it should not be given until all brood has emerged from the combs, leaving room for the winter stores.

Healthy living conditions for bees during the winter are more difficult to maintain than during the summer. The bees should be kept in a cool, dark and well ventilated. Hives should have covers, removed, season after season, the bees on the inside of the covers should be removed or supported so that the bees are not disturbed by any shaking or vibration. Mice and other disturbers of the peace should be kept at a minimum. Bees cannot thrive on foul air in a damp dungeon.

When wintering bees outside, all parts of the comb or wrapping should be secure and snug to avoid shaking the bees by the wind. The bees should be protected from, at least, the north and west winds. A good covering of snow is a big help. In northern districts where the temperatures are too low for bees activity to change the air via the entrance, some provision for upward ventilation, such as a quilt of porous material, seems to be necessary. Mice are not so likely to reach the vicinity of the hives and disturb the bees if the grass is cut.

In short, peace and comfort are essential in successfully wintering bees.

John Buchanan's Famous "Thirty-Nine Steps" Are In Wales

Famous as the title of a mystery story John Buchanan, the Lord Tweedsmuir, present governor-general of Canada, Britain's "Thirty-Nine Steps" actually exist. C. M. Turner of the Associated British and Irish Railway states: "They are to be found, not on the North Sea coast, as in the story of espionage and intrigue, but at St. Davids' cathedral, at the extreme and westernmost edge of Wales, where the coast of Pembrokeshire juts out into the sea. Ecclesiasticals have been joking about the existence of the steps. Their number corresponds with the 39 articles of Queen Elizabeth, which were still binding near the end of the century. Therefore, it was said to be impious for a clergyman to tread upon them. The steps were the monument of the Welsh clergy in 1520, however, the Welsh clergy, and they alone, may walk down them!"

Planned With Success

The general merchant, who did a bit of tailoring in his spare time, was called on by a friend who said, "I've been putting on weight and this dress is rather too tight for me. Could you manager to let it out a bit?"

"I've never done such a thing," was the reply, "but I'll see what I can do."

A week later the owner of the suit telephoned to see how his friend was getting on with it.

"Better than I expected," said the friend, "I've let it out to four men already."

Thousands visit Imperial War Museum in London Every Year

Hordes of the great war continue to attract thousands in London. An official report shows approximately 350,000 people visit the Imperial war museum annually.

New additions to the museum's exhibits include a steel helmet worn by King George V. on Wythcombe Ridge on July 4, 1917, and souvenirs picked up by the King at Vimy ridge on the same visit to France.

Also there is the King's copy of the message he sent to the troops of the expeditionary force on Aug. 12, 1914. Inquiries made at the museum cover every aspect of the war. Some of them show the influence of current events in the past.

All but one of these inquiries has been answered. The question which has completely baffled the librarians is the origin of the word "blimp".

Commenting on this, the News-Chronicle remarks: "But, really, what other name was possible for those sausage-like balloons - or sausage-minded colonels?"

Coal For British Ships

Ship To Be Built To Show The Advantages Of Coal

An experimental ship, costing approximately $80,000 (about $400,000), will be built in Britain to demonstrate the advantages of coal as fuel.

With the moral support of the admiralty, the undertaking is being promoted by interests represented on the mines department committee, which has been examining possibilities of increasing the national interest, use of coal for bunkering purposes.

The type of ship to be built will be in the cargo and intermediate passenger liner, considered to have the best chance of competing successfully with oil. A company, to be formed if the experiment proves a success, will undertake construction of a fleet of similar vessels.

Criticism of the policy of using oil instead of coal by the British navy and much of the mercantile fleet, has been growing in recent months. The critics contend national security is menaced by dependence on foreign sources for fuel supplies.

They also argue that the rapid elimination of coal as ship's fuel is undermining the vital coal industry. A number of naval authorities and navigation leaders have given their support to the coal campaign, but Rear-Admiral G. W. Baldwin, now retired, believes there have been sound reasons for favoring oil.

"During the past 40 years," he says, "the fixed policy of successive boards of the admiralty has been the gradual elimination of coal from the fleet in favor of liquid fuel."

Similar changes have been effected in other navies and all of them with one object - to obtain from the warship displacement the maximum of such desirable and essential features as gun-power, armor, water-tight sub-division, speed, fuel and endurance.

Growing In Popularity

Air-Conditioning Will Soon Be Regular Feature In Homes

Mark Twain was wrong. He said "Everybody talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it." Heating engineers have been studying it and have discovered that it is not enough to have the right degree of temperature in our homes, but to make us comfortable, we must have the right amount of moisture in the air. In motion, and free from dust particles. They are about to change the air in our homes, making them cool and less damp in summer and warm and properly humidified in winter. This new process they call air conditioning.

By evaporating water in the heating plant they can humidity the air. It can be done in the summer and keep it in motion and filtered in the winter. It will be more difficult and more expensive—to take out some of the moisture from the air and keep it in motion and filtered in the summer.

Many new homes are installing air conditioning plants, and some are adding these to their present heating systems. A few are arranging for air conditioning in two rooms of the house. The time will come when air conditioning will be a regular feature in "modern conveniences."

Education Costs

Fall Heavens On Shoulders Of The Rural Population

Due to the unequal distribution of population and of children, education costs fall more heavily on the shoulders of the rural population, says the Brandon Star. Violent fluctuations in the price of primary products affect the smaller urban and the rural communities more acutely than they do the large urban centers depending on a more diversified economy. The only solution to this problem seems to lie in the creation of a larger unit of school support than the coal equalized over all the communities in the unit—urban and rural, large and small. Although the province would be the most effective school unit, two things stand in the way—the hostility of the local school boards to yield their autonomy to provincial governments and the inability of the provinces to assume the greater financial burden involved. A redistribution of responsibilities or powers of taxation among municipalities, provinces and Dominion is necessary to solve the latter problem and most provinces are obstacles to an equitable solution.

AIR RAID SIRENS MAY NEVER BE USED

Hundreds of air raid sirens, working on the principle of the gadget used by boys on kites, had been ordered by the British Government from Leicester firm for use in the Metropolitan area and many provincial cities. A 4 h.p. motor works in air at one end and, placed at intervals of a mile, the sirens were to sound an alarm when the position of an approaching air-raider. Now, happily, they may never be needed. Our picture shows some of the sirens being prepared for shipment.

Thinks Record Is Safe

But Captain Eyston Believes He Could Travel Even Faster

Captain O. E. T. Eyston, the best-known Englishman whose Thunderbolt holds the world's land speed record of 307.2 miles an hour, told the Eyston Club luncheon in Toronto: "I am satisfied Great Britain has put this record where it will be difficult to lift by any one outside the country."

"The best part of getting the record is not the thrill and hard work to the man who on Sept. 16 hurtled over the Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, faster than any human ever before travelled on land."

In a brief, informal address during which he frequently glanced down at his pile of notes and almost as frequently smiled broadly at his own quiet and ironic jokes, Captain Eyston told of the thrill and hard work to the man who on Sept. 16 hurtled over the Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, faster than any human ever before travelled on land.

And while there was no mistaking his quiet pride in the achievement, he did not regard "the magic six miles a minute" as the absolute high for land. "As far as Thunderbolt is concerned, I am quite confident the car is capable of doing more," he said, adding, however, that "a tremendous lot of development work must be done before we shall begin approaching the 400-mile-an-hour mark."

While the greatest thrill for the driver of the record-breaking car was "when it was over," the greatest thrill for the spectator was in the fact the thunderous roar of the car as it followed it at an interval of one-half mile, he declared.

His firm was producing about 40 machines a month for the German air force. He had given up his own seeking orders for Diesel trucks, built by his firm, in exchange for Australian wool, which Germany needed.

Money For Luxuries

Dominion Bureau Of Statistics Gives Figures For 1937

Dominion Bureau of Statistics says Canadians spent something like $100,000,000 in 1937 in three or four luxuries, to wit: Per liquor, $109,000,000 ($10 for every man, woman and child in the country); 6,000,000,000 cigarettes, 125,000,000 cigars; wagged $21,000,000 at race tracks; made one automobile, believes, says the Ottawa Journal, "that apart from the unemployment of many, much of our hard-earned money is largely spent on luxuries."

Czechs Proud Of Syrový

New Premier Had Wonderful Record In World War

Competitively little is known in this country of Gen. Jan Syrový, the one-eyed "strong man" who was called to the premiership of Czechoslovakia in her darkest hour and placed in command of her military forces. But Syrový ranks not far behind Masaryk and Benes as national idols of the Czechs. One of the most picturesque figures of the World War, he failed to attain wide recognition because his theater of operations was one of the sidelines—not the main tent.

Jan Syrový was born in Trebic, Moravia, Jan. 24, 1888. At the outbreak of the World War he was employed in Warsaw and immediately joined the Czech volunteer corps formed to fight in the Russian army. He lost an eye in the battle of Varsse. When Russia collapsed and severed a separate peace with Germany, Syrový became chief of the Czech forces in Russia.

In this capacity he carried out one of the most amazing feats of the war. From the remnants of the Czech volunteer corps and from Czechs who had been Austrian soldiers and were interned in Russian prison camps, he organized and equipped a Czech army. It was his hope to lead more than 3,000 men to Siberia to Vladivostok, secure troop-ships by aid of the western powers, sail through the Bering Sea and the Mediterranean and place his army at the disposal of the allied command on the western front.

Before this epic began could be completed the Russian situation had changed so completely that the Czechs were unable to reach Siberia. The Czechs remain in Siberia as the nucleus of an international force to maintain order in the Far East and Trans-Siberian road open. The Czechs, under Syrový, performed their task with distinction.

After his army was repatriated, he became commander of the army for Bohemia. In 1926 he was placed in command of the entire Czech army. From 1933 he became General-Inspector.

He was only 30 years old when he commanded the Czech legions in Siberia—one of the youngest officers of general rank to participate in the World War, certainly the youngest to command an independent army. Now, at 50, he assumes new and even greater responsibilities. If a second European war develops out of the Nazi-Czech impasse Jan Syrový may be one of the few World War veterans to lead an army in the field.—Chicago Daily News.

Seismograph Will Be Used By Prospectors For Locating Deposits

Prospectors in Canada's north will soon be using seismographs in their prospecting. Seismographical instruments originally developed to record and analyze earthquakes are now being adapted for locating mineral deposits.

Dr. John Patterson of Dominion meteorological bureau at Toronto, expects a big increase in their use in northern Ontario.

Prospectors wishing to explore the mineral possibilities of new territories nowadays put a charge of dynamite as deeply as possible into the ground and station seismographs at a distance. When the charge is set off the instruments record the type of vibrations and their frequency.

From these recordings experts are able to determine the type of soil or rock on which the surface. With increasingly accurate recording mechanisms the seismograph will be able to locate the richer ore and prospectors hope to strike.

A seismograph may be designed for any purpose, he explained, such as to record the vibration caused by a train passing over a bridge. Analysis of vibrations is useful to engineers in every branch of construction.

A Foolish Obsession

Suspicion With Which Americans Look On Canadian Money

A Canadian writes to The New York Times in criticism of the suspicion with which Americans look on Canadian money. He says that bills are readily accepted on this side of the line. Ten Awards Out Of 46 Come Saskatchewan winners in the Empire essay contest for school children, and members of the local branch of the St. John's Ambulance Society, received their awards and prizes at a meeting of the Canadian club at Saskatoon.

Copies of "The Book of the Queen's House," photographed by Queen Mary, were awarded to Lancelotti, Robertson, Regina, and Joyce Oiding, of North Battleford. Helen Stewart, of Saskatoon, received a copy of "The History of England," photographed by the Duchess of Athol.

The awards to MISS THORNTON and Miss Oiding were personal gifts from Queen Mary, as that to Miss Stewart was from the Duchess of Athol. The presentations were made by the guest of honor at the gathering, Mrs. C. W. Macdonald, K.C., high commissioner for India in Great Britain and Northern Ireland.

"It is worthy of note, in view of the population of the British Empire, that ten of the 46 awards came to Canada, and of these ten, three came to Saskatchewan," Sir Frobisher remarked, in making the presentations.

On behalf of the St. John's Ambulance Society, of which society he is a knight commander, and chairman for the Punjab, his native province in India, Sir Frobisher presented awards to three Saskatoon women: Mrs. Margaret Johnston, head of No. 7 nursing division, first bar to long service medal; Mrs. E. M. Royle, long service medal; Mrs. A. Reynolds, long service medal with red star.
